Dedication

To one who is distinctly A. P. C. in his democracy; who is firm and fair in his decision; who sees the broader scope of life; who shouldered a responsibility of priceless value, without shirking, yet did not ignore the smaller issues and common touch; the one who has planted in our hearts and minds traditions so deeply that they can never pass away; who has won the praise of his superiors and the student body, and the admiration and regard of the class of '25; to such a man the class of '25 wishes to pay the highest honor in its power. To him we dedicate the 1925 Agricola.

W. OMAR YOUNG

In Memoriam

To the bereaved parents
and friends of Ira McCollum, whose untimely death took from our college one of its most ardent supporters and from society one of its rarest flowers of gentlemanly manhood.

We offer this our condonement.

Foreword

It is our purpose in publishing the 1925 AGRICOLA, to mirror within its pages the more important events of school life.

And in depicting the activities which crowd themselves into the span of one school year, emphasis has been given to those bits of by-play which entered therein—to those periods of classes, sports, and recreation which mirror the spirit of A. P. C.

Classmates, if perusal of these pages in later years reminds you of these happy experiences, our efforts shall be repaid.

Hail! Alma Mater! Hail!
Joyous we sing;
Voices atune with love
Shall loudly ring.
Thy graduates sing to thee
Praises today
Hail! Alma Mater! Hail!
To A. P. C.

Fetters of friendship true
Bind us to thee;
Time spent with thee is dear
To memory.
With love a-glowing with loyalty
Sing we our song
Hail! Let our voices glad
The notes prolong!

On nature's beauteous foothills
'Neath Arkansas' Skies,
There, crowned with glory
Thy buildings rise.
Thou hast by purpose now
Lighted our way,
Hail! Alma Mater! Hail!
To A. P. C.; S. D. A.

History of A. P. C.

Arkansas Polytechnic College was created by the General Assembly of Arkansas State Legislature. The bill changing the Second District Agricultural School into a College was introduced by State Senator Robert Bailey and passed as an emergency act, thereby upon the signature of the governor, after passage in both the houses and senate, it became effective. The college is indebted to its efficient Board of Trustees, Faculty, acting president, student body, Senator and Representatives and the united support of the Russellville people in attaining its present position and prestige.

Harold Crum (looking over plumbing fixtures): "Do you mind demonstrating this bath tub?"

Lillie Watkins (working in plumbing shop): "SIR."

Miss Norris: "Junior, I hear that you have twins at your house?"

Junior: "Yeh, but keep it quiet. Mama says the neighbors exaggerate everything."

"I'm not the only bird that crows," says the Father (who has called on his son at the A. P. C.) "So this is what you are spending your time and my money for is it?"

Ruel Strickland (hugging Newell Mc.) "No, father, I get this for nothing."

Alcie Oldham: "Why did you close your eyes when you kissed me?"

Russell Clark: "Because I thought I was in heaven—and who ever heard of a red-headed angel?"

"I may be the only one to have long ears, but there's many a in this school, and they don't bray either," said the mule.

Clyde Magness: "Pardon me, Professor Dean. Last night your daughter accepted my proposal of marriage. I have called to see if there is any insanity in your family."

Prof.: "There must be."

Virgie: "I hear fatty likes only brunettes."

Sybil: "So they say. I'm dyeing to meet him."

"I'm not the only member of the College who keeps late hours," said the

Mr. White: "Yep, I had a beard like yours once, and when I realized how it made me look, I cut it off, B'gosh."

Coach: "Well, I had a face like yours once and when I realized that I couldn't cut it off I grew this beard, by heck."

Miss Halbrook: "Is it dangerous to drive with one hand?"

Dr. Cain: "Rather, more than one fellow has run into the church doing it."

Senior College Class History

In the course of human events it becomes necessary to write a record of an illustrious group of people; to unfold how destiny has played a stellar role in molding leaders in college, who will later be leaders in life; to show how a group of boys and one girl has helped in the making of a greater school for a greater Arkansas. To write the history of this class is a stupendous task which will require reams and reams of paper. In a way we are mere human beings in that we have all the capacities of committing harmless misdemeanors and of doing great deeds. Brevity will permit us to disclose to the public some of the high lights in our class life.

The class as a whole has made a wonderful record throughout its school life, most of its members having gone through high school here and continued through college. The question came to many of us when we finished high school whether we could and would go on to college. We thought with regret about leaving the old Alma Mater and class mates, and contemplated with dismay starting at another college because that meant forming new acquaintances and learning to love new and unfamiliar halls and class rooms, as well as fellow students and instructors. To the delight of each of us, in the school session of 1922, a college course was added. This was hailed with delight by those graduates who had completed high school the past year or so. From that time until the present this little crowd of people has been working consistently and in harmony with one another, in order to some day be Seniors.

Until January of this year most of us were very doubtful about our getting a degree, since the law of the state stated that no degrees could be given as long as we were the Second District Agricultural School. This necessitated our developing and broadening into a college. With a long hard fight on the part of some of our distinguished supporters in the Legislature, the bill passed that the Second District Agricultural School should be changed to the Arkansas Polytechnic College.

Since practically all of the class are boys, we find the spirit of the Wonder Team implanted in their hearts and minds, a spirit to fight for a job and to stay with it.

Our class is unique in that practically the entire Wonder Boys' team is from the Senior Class. Among those who are well known by their football powers are: G. W. Hamm, All State tackle, captain of Wonder Boys in 1923; Clark Reasoner, All State guard, captain of 1924 team; Carroll Jones, captain of 1922 team; Joe Bennett, center of the team, one of our several married men; Oral McIlroy, another of our class benedicts, All State tackle, editor-in-chief of college annual; Frank Stanley, a good tackle, president of the Periclean Literary Society; Denton Powers, who distinguished himself particularly in the game against the Tennessee Doctors, an unusually good track man; Elmer Hamm, "Unk," as he is familiarly known through his relationship with G. W., a dependable man playing end on the team; G. W. Stokes, another good end.

Besides the football stars other students of power and importance belong to our group. Their graduation will leave a vacancy in the college life and activities which will be hard to fill. From our number come the editor-in-chief of our bi-weekly paper, Ben Pruett; one of our yell leaders, president of the Arkco-Agrarian Society, band member, Dennis Rose; King of Hoboes, Jim Myover, who also has a wonderful voice; Manual Training professor at Dardanelle, leader in band, also another of the class' poor henpecked married men, Lavan Shoptaw; chemistry professor, Autrey Newman; president Arkco-Agrarian Society second term, band, musician, John Walker; a good loyal student who will stand by the school, Roy McNeal; band drummer, all around student, Edgar Vaughn; a boy always with a smile, a good athlete, Arch Bewley.

As is fitting to the honor of this office, our faithful class president, John Tucker, deserves a paragraph to himself. John is known by people all over the state and a great part of the United States as a star on the gridiron. People will tell their children's children about the great football player, John Tucker. But to us who know him, and to many of his opponents on the football field, he is known as every inch a man. He has proved one of the best students we have had, ranking high in scholastic ability. He is not only a leader in school, but a leader in the community in which he lives.

We are not conceited, but we fear that the school will be lacking in football material, band material, leaders in society, club, and journalistic work, and assistant professors. I, being the only girl in the class, am afraid to expose to the public all the inner secrets of these boys, but considering them as a whole I have never known a nicer crowd with whom to work and be associated.

Senior College Class Prophecy

In the first place, this is not to be an ordinary class prophecy, or I would use the customary method of falling into a deep sleep and dream of the fate that awaits my class mates in the future. I have never been able to enlist the aid of fairies, witches or spirits in the past and I know there is no use trying now, so this will necessarily be based on facts that have little or none of the fantastic attraction that is usually associated with a paper of this kind. But, after all, there is no better way of judging the future than by the past.

To me the prospects of our class are very bright both in the light of the qualifications of the students and in the opportunities that present themselves.

America always has believed in education. In the pioneer days the first institution to be built was the school and church. This same idea has been the means of enabling the people to act justly and intelligently. Popular education is still deemed the bulwark of our liberties. Today the public school system of the rural district is not meeting the legitimate demands made of it. The country school is not keeping up with the times.

Most of the members of this class will in all probability go into rural work of some kind, probably school work, therefore such conditions will be a challenge to them which they will surely accept. With the opportunities that are offered in this line of work there is no doubt but that each member of the class will meet with success. His training has been such as to qualify him for the widely diversified demands that will be made on him. In fact, the graduate of Arkansas Tech has such a well rounded education that he can and will make good in a large number of different vocations and in the broader life that awaits him in his field of service he will realize the full value of every detail of his training, and that even the little things he got in college are important.

"Nothing useless is, or low ;
Each thing in its place is best ;
And what seems but idle show
Strengthens and supports the rest."

I honestly believe that it can be truthfully said of any graduate going out this year, that he has seen an ideal and he has the inclination, grit and ability to climb toward it.

"He hath stirred him, and found out the flow in his fetters, and cast them behind

His soul to his soul is a law, and his mind is a light to his mind.
The seal of his knowledge is sure, the truth and his spirit are wed ;
Men perish, but men shall endure ; lives die, but the life is not dead.
He hath sight of the secrets of season, the roots of the year and the fruits ;

His soul is at one with the reason of things that is sap to the roots.
He can hear in their changes a sound as the conscience of consonant spheres,

He can see through the years flowing round him, the law lying under the years."

It seems to me that the class of '25 is especially prepared to bring about changes for the better in Arkansas. With members in school work, in industrial occupations, or farmers and in various other fields with perhaps a preacher or two in the crowd, our class is destined to exert a significant influence toward making Arkansas a land of plenty, a land of beauty and a land of rural comradeship.

It is our ambition in making it a great democracy of thrifty, educated, independent, home-owning farmers—men and women to whom farming is not only work, but also a business, a science, and an art ; men and women who love farm life, the farm and their communities, and to whom the spirit of cooperation and community effort have brought a new sense of the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God.

Last Will and Testament of The Senior College Class

The class being of sound mind and reason, do hereby cause this our last will to be published. Any and all previous wills, transcripts of purpose, design or gift are null and void. The class do hereby give notice also, that the individual will and testament of any member of this class, is unauthorized and will not be recognized.

I. Thus we being duly authorized do hereby bequeath our exalted opinions upon our inferiors, the Junior College Class.

II. Knowing that the school cannot be run intelligently without our advice; do hereby confer the right upon the Board of Trustees, faculty and president to enter into conference with our class upon all weighty questions pertaining to the school's management.

Carroll Jones, Dennis Rose, G. W. Hamm do hereby bequeath from their individual rights the right to loiter around and in the hallway or beanery, or elsewhere upon the campus, and make love to the fairer sex, to the members of the Juniors or other enterprising future Seniors.

IV. John Tucker, Joe Bennett and G. W. Stokes will their individual knowledge on how to cinch a love match without losing one's dignity, to Prof. Tomlinson, Prof. White, Prof. Stewart and Dr. Cain.

Article II. O. H. McIlroy bequeaths the right to be questioned on how it feels to be called daddy.

V. All other members having a list of junk as follows: Football Knowledge, Practical Knowledge (if any is left), and all miscellaneous things kept in the top ivory of a Senior to go for a floating fund, and shall be parceled out equally over a space of 4 years to the graduates each year.

Lastly. We bequeath all other paraphernalia to whomsoever may rightly claim it.

Thus causing our seal to be fixed this the 1st day of January, 1925.

AGRICOLA

Senior Class History

Years ago when we first entered High School, we felt somewhat like the Eskimos whom a gentleman had brought to New York. Wishing to amuse, and also, astonish them, he dressed them out for a walk through the streets of the metropolis. When their walk was ended the only words they could be brought to utter were, "Too much smoke, too much noise, too much men, too much everything."

By the cooperation and guidance of our loyal Faculty, to whom we wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation, each member of the senior class of 1924-25 feels that he has turned the smoky trail of academic life into a stairway leading to success.

In our studies we got along "fairly well." We had imbibed the impression that a long list of subjects is apt to produce good scholars. When we discovered the error of our ways, it was too late to make any worth while changes. So we continued the study of chemistry, agriculture, algebra, geometry, English, and a long list of other subjects, with the result that we now have a smattering idea of each, without having mastered the fundamentals of what is now called a practical education. This, however, is neither surprising nor discouraging. Nearly all people sooner or later experience that what they know they cannot use, and what they can use, they do now know.

Fortunately, no serious sicknesses befell our ranks. Only one or two maladies made their appearance, and these were some sort of a fever, the main symptoms being a constant tendency to play football or basket ball, accompanied with a disinclination to study. Fortunately, we gradually got over the attack, although some of its effects are still lingering in our systems.

The Freshman and Sophomore years were without any events of note. They went along smoothly, without discord, without strife, without rivalry. But as soon as we entered the Junior year things became more interesting, and we began to look about us for a class to succeed the seniors of that year and to be the graduates of 1925. A class meeting was held and a Junior roll made out. A few names were added to it during the year, making a total of forty-five students, namely: Vestal Birkhead, Rupert Bonds, Joe Burton, Troy Caviness, Russell Clark, George Crager, Levi Cummins, Dorothy Crouse, Muriel Eikleberry, John Emmons, Florence Graham, Verner Hatchett, Richard Hill, J. T. Hodges, Clyde Jones, Boyd Keathley, Elmo Lacy, Alvin Longstreth, Clyde Magness, Fay McCullough, Bertha McCutcheon, Jerrell Moore, Kenneth Northwang, Alcie Oldham, Harold Overby, Varnell Overby, Helen Paxson, Johnnie Reed, Helen Roberts, Tad Sands, C. B. Smith, Ruth Spicer, Cecil Stanford, Dorothy Sullivant, Ray Taylor, May Vance, Carl Ward, Junius Ward, Lillie Watkins, Serena Wright, and Mildred Yates.

AGRICOLA

The final examinations were passed by "the skin of the teeth" and we are ready to greet the next school year with a feeling of seniority.

After returning to the College in the fall of 1924 a class meeting was held and the senior roll was called. We were delighted to find that nine new members had joined our ranks, namely; James Chance, Dudley Edwards, Ratha Hamilton, Lynn Hester, Jess Hicks, Alline Krepke, Robert Moore, Gerry Orr, and Carl Roady. The class organized, and we started on our conquest of all the obstacles lying between us and our High School diplomas. As to our success we shall leave it to the judgment of our various teachers.

While we have thus given a brief historical sketch of our High School career, we trust that the ending of this "our first lesson" will be the beginning of another life that will enable us to build upon the foundations laid while students of this institution.—J. W. BURTON.

Senior Class Prophecy

The fact that I was chosen to write the class prophecy for our distinguished Senior Class of 19225, gave me considerable work and knowing that there was very little of the prophetic in my make-up, I began giving my undivided attention to the task.

When I had puzzled over the matter for some time I grew desperate from trying to delve into the intricacies of the subject and realized that I must go to some secluded place, where solitude reigned and where by deep meditation I might be able to pry into the future of my classmates.

The only suitable place that presented itself was the picturesque Cagle's Rock. I was so obsessed with the idea that I lost not time; but jumped into my tin flivver began a hasty journey toward this point.

When I had climbed to the highest pinnacle of the noble boulder, I lay down underneath a shelf of rock; only to discover that I was in very little mood for deep meditation. My eyes roved over the panorama spread out in the valley beneath me and lingered on the golden tints that the fast dying sun gave to the many colored leaves. In the balmy air my brain became dull and I fell asleep.

I awoke about an hour later and saw standing before me an Indian Chieftain. He was very tall and straight; but his innumerable wrinkles and weather-beaten countenance proclaimed him to be of great age. He was dressed in a full suit of beaded buckskin and wore an eagle headdress to match. Around his waist was a belt of wampum, in which were thrust several bowie knives and a tomahawk. In one hand he carried a capable looking bow and a beaded quiver filled with arrows. Last, but not least, what attracted and held my attention was a string of fully fifty scalps that hung from his belt.

Before I had time to recover from my panic and surprise he beckoned me to follow him, then turned about and disappeared around an angle of the rock. Thinking that he might be about to lead me to the hiding place of the vast amounts of treasure, which tradition and gossip have reputed to be hidden near Cagle's Rock; I arose and followed in the wake of my guide. When I passed the angle of the rock he was nowhere in sight; but upon taking a few steps forward I felt something give and I was precipitated into space, down, down, through a hole in the very middle of the gigantic mass of rock. I fell so long that the thought occurred to me that surely I was destined to reach Hades before my time. This thought caused a snicker of pure glee at the thought of how surprised old Nick would be to have me arrived in such a hurried manner; when all at once I lit with a terrific splash and found myself imbibing pure Adam's Ale by the gallon. Crawling out upon a ragged shelf of hard stone I ascertained that no injury had been done by the fall. Then an extremely dazzling phosphorescent glow sprang up from all parts of the rock walled cavern in which I found myself.

Across one end of the cavern an enormous book was standing open. It was easily fifteen feet wide by twenty feet long, and standing directly in front of it was the Indian Chieftain. He opened his mouth and said in broken English but with the guttural tones customary to his race: "This is the Book of Fate, which tells of the lives of all people, past, present, and future."

I crept up close to the book and saw that by each name was a picture of that person at the time the height of his ambition was reached. I gazed with awe and reverence upon such names as Caesar, Napoleon, Washington, Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson. Then while trying to find my own name I ran across those of my classmates.

After I had read the fates of my classmates I again sought for my own name; but not seeing it I decided to turn to another page, and as the book was not very well braced it tipped over and fell on me. To my surprise I found myself back on top of the Rock, from where I made my way back home. I immediately undertook to transcribe the contents of the book on paper; but to my disgust I could not remember a single line. Soon I put up my work and went to bed to dream of the events of the day.

While wandering in the jungles and valleys of dreamland the future of my classmates came back to me with greater reality and I began to wander with them in their different vocations of life.

First I was in the town of St. Louis and looking into the principal bank of the city, saw the president at his desk. He turned to speak to the cashier and I recognized the beloved president of our Senior Class, C. B. Smith. Then I remembered that he had acquired a very valuable "Stone" soon after his graduation.

The scene now changed. I was walking in the residential section of Philadelphia and chanced to fall into step with a beautiful and well dressed lady, whom I saw was my school mate Vera Davis. She had become the most eminent novelist of her time. We began talking over old times and I found that she had kept track of several of our classmates. Roy Taylor had graduated from West Point, with many honors. Helen Paxson chose the stage for her profession and has more admirers than any other actress. It seemed that Verner Hatchett has become an enterprising salesman of Bibles, wigs, false teeth and chewing gum. When he shows his gold teeth in a fascinating smile there is no resisting him. Black-haired ladies buy red wigs and infidels buy Bibles.

I next found myself at a great Woman Suffrage Convention. The woman chairman and speaker was Alcie Oldham. Looking over the large audience I saw a great many of my old schoolmates and after the day session we gathered at Delmontico's restaurant, where we staged a great banquet and where we were to regale one another with our different experiences since our school days were over.

We were beginning to do full justice to the repast, when Reverend Tad Sands stood up and called upon his brother Evangelist Reverend Troy Caviness to return thanks. After we were all well stuffed, each began to elucidate as to the different vocations they were following.

Cecile Stanford was the most celebrated poetess of her day. Boyd Keathley was the best baseball player in America. Lois Camp had become the leading lady in a great many wild West scenarios. Serena Wright was proprietor of a large and prosperous line of hotels. Pauline Edwards, the proprietress of a home for stray dogs and cats and henpecked husbands, told me that Alvin Longstreth had become a particularly daring aviator and was then on a trip to Mars; but the general opinion of his friends was that he would never return, for the simple reason that he might never again be in such close proximity of Heaven.

Elmo Lacy, the owner of a large dairy farm, had brought his bookkeeper, George Crager along. Oris Deshazo was the most prosperous farmer in Arkansas and Carl Ward a learned scientist were also present. Johnnie Reed was the winner of the late International Typewriting Championship. We were entertained by Dorothy Crouse, the latest in Primma Donnas, while Vestel Birkhead, the ballet dancer, gave a wonderful exhibition of her skill.

Ruth Spicer was married and happy; but her prosperous family prevented her from being present. I found Bertha McCuthcheon's excellent World History in a display in the next store window.

AGRICOLA

Richard Hill, who sat a little apart from the rest was assiduously cultivating the dozen or so remaining hairs on an otherwise smooth dome. He said that he had studied too hard while at school. Kenneth Northwang had gone west and carried "West" with him. He established a fruit ranch in California. The wonderfully absent minded professor of Entomology, James Chance, now stood up and began to repeat backwards the life history of a green and gold bug that he had found in his vegetable soup. Carl Roady, who was an income tax expert, showed us how we might cheat Uncle Sam out of fifty cents on the dollar. Alline Kreipke, the dramatist, told us that she had just finished her world famed drama "Then why should I cry over you?"

The greatest electrical engineer of all ages, Russell Clark, had brought his able assistant, J. T. Hodges with him. Levi Cummins, a learned math professor, exclusive product of Arkansas and resident of Ouita, now began to compute the number of men it would take, falling from the planet Mars, to knock the Atlantic ocean dry. Clyde Magness, a noted live stock breeder, developed a terrific headache from eating some of his own cast iron beef and since Faye McCullough, a wonderful chiropractor, was present, she proceeded to demonstrate on him and accidentally effected a cure. She says she can cure anything from a broken heart to a broken engagement. Just before our gathering broke up we had our fortunes told by the palmist, Mildred Yates. The feast being over, the modern Rockefeller, Jess Hicks, opened his heart and footed the bill.

The scene changed and I found myself in the Hall of Congress. The silver-tongued Congressman Joe Burton was delivering the greatest masterpiece of oratory ever heard in that magnificent building.

Now the scene shifted to the pyramids of Egypt, where I saw the famous archaeologist, Junius Ward (P. H. D., B. S. C., B. A., P. D. Q., S. O. L. etc) on terms of intimacy with the skeletons of ancient Pharohs. I next took a peep into the missionary districts of China, where I saw John Emmons, a worthy sky-pilot getting an introduction into the art of eating with chop sticks. The cadaverous expression on his benign countenance gave evidence of many weary hours of hard labor in trying to satisfy his growing hunger.

The desire suddenly possessed me to return home and visit the Arkansas Polytechnic College, the scene of many hours of labor. While crossing the Rocky Mountains I saw a gloomy castle situated upon an almost inaccessible plateau, which was surrounded by frowning walls. Upon inquiry I found that this was the private harem of the modern Shiek, Clyde B. Jones.

I found that the old school had changed somewhat. It has become the largest College in the South. Harold Overby, the football coach, thinks his team will have an easy victory when they meet West Point and Notre Dame. On looking over the institution I found that several more of my classmates had refused to leave. Lillie Wilkins is the efficient office stenographer, while Varnell Overby pilots the basket ball team to victory. Jerrell Moore, successor to Mr. Dean, takes a delight in torturing the drawing students. Florence Dean, the modern yell leader, and Ratha Hamilton, the accomplished music teacher, are also valubale assets to the institution. The younger generation is taught thow to avoid indigestion by the real honest-to-goodness Domestic Science teacher May Vance, and how to build ideal homes by Florence Graham, who puts her advice into practice in her own home.

Last but not least, after trying unsuccessfully to secure a real girl, I found myself riding the waves of the Pacific ocean and vainly endeavoring to catch the golden haired mermaids as they swim lazily past. Here my pleasant dreams were interrupted by the welcome voice of my father: "Get up from there, you lazy scamp, if you want any breakfast." It seems that someone is always taking the joy out of life, for I nearly caught the prettiest mermaid the last grab.

Class Will and Testament

We, the dignified, illustrious and notorious Seniors of '25 do hereby make, publish and declare this to be our last will and testament.

To the faculty members we leave the right—
To do anything they think will spite the "Freshie"
Who is so green and loud,
Unlike the Seniors so dignified and proud.

Unto the Juniors we hand down
The honor and privilege of going to town
That is, if they have permits filled out in ink,
And signed by matron and dean without a blink.

Of personal bequest we have many;
Some are large, some are small, and some are rather skinny—
Our mighty president tops the list alone,
For what he leaves is a precious "Stone."

Next in order may I name
One whose reading has brought her fame,
The thought she leaves, is not on lamb
But her advice no how to cure "Hamm."

The two Dots and Boyd will come in a row
Because of the knowledge they can bestow
Upon the simple subject of a physique,
No, I am mistaken, I mean Physics.

Clyde's and Richard's rapid rate
Of making calls and telephone dates,
While Gerry and Tad have demerits to let,
And all who can bear them are welcome, you bet.

Pauline's and Ratha's advice on how to care
For a mass of long brown, wavy hair,
Along with this Alcie should boast
The rays given off from her own lamp.

Cummins and Magness, two brilliant scholars,
Leave what it takes to draw for the dollars,
While Emmons and Crager two gallant courteurs,
Their courage and boldness and lack of fears.

Florence's and Johnnie's contribution
Leaves high music to the institution
We hope that Howard won't think it a snare
As for him, Johnnie will keep a share.

AGRICOLA

Rupert's skill in writing prose,
And plenty of time to tell all he knows.
Northwang's power as a shiek he bequests
As it will be of no need when he gets out west.

May's advice on making hamburgers with skill,
Is of no little importance in making this will,
Also Florence Graham's ability in serving the sick.
That is, if they don't die they get well quick.

As to Hatchet such a shy little bashful boy
Leaves his ability to turn sorrow into joy,
But when it comes to hitting the mark
Taylor is there as gay as a lark.

Varnell's knowledge of a football player,
One who is kind and will always obey her,
Lois' ambition to be a school ma'm
Or to be an old maid and live on the farm.

Clark and Caviness, two Physics sharks,
Leave the exact length of electric sparks
While Junius and Carl both know right well
What it takes to make a Bichromate Cell.

Alinne to any deserving one,
Her ability to read and have her fun,
While Lillie leaves her vampish ways,
To be used sparingly on Saturdays.

Long and Eiklebury, both talented musicians,
Leave their advice not to rush when finishing
As it is too much for the ordinary man,
The tax on the brain is more than he can stand.

Bertha and Mildred their ability as readers,
Also share of their skill as feeders.
Ruth and "Patchel" bestow on those
Who wish quiet, peace, and sweet repose.

Helen's right to use any pretentious name,
Especially if there's any chance of her winning fame
Fays' ability to put in rhyme
Anything that is well worth her time.

Hester's oratory and basketball talent
And Oris Deshazo who also is gallant.
Both young men are promising chaps
And will be an inspiration to you, perhaps.

Knowledge in football we have galore.
In Overby, Streets, and Bobby Moore,
May we always be as we are at this date,
The Wonder Boys from the Wonder State.

Now, Juniors, you won't think I am selfish I hope,
For before I got to the author I ran out of dope.
I have studied and studied on the task I have dreaded,
Until I am gray,—no, red headed.

Junior Class History

In considering the members of the Junior class, we find that all are heroes. Having bravely withstood the onslaughts of the hostile faculty ever gaining ground, until at last, after three years, we stand before the very ramparts which are to be captured in 1926.

Now, let us consider our well known President, Chas. B. Clement. Charles is very active in athletics, and is one of our star players in both football and basketball.

Next comes our Vice President, Hillman Lee, a distinguished member of our class. He has made a good record, and we hope he will be with us next season.

Then, our Secretary, Hilda Blair, who came to us from Lamar, is loved by all who know her. When a voice is heard saying, "My soul, my soul," you may know that is Hilda.

A number of new students entered our class in the fall, and all have made good records. We hope that they have learned to love this College, and will return for the coming year.

Sophomore Class History

Our Freshman year in school was one of misery. Our highest ambitions were to become sophomores. Being a measly little "Freshie" was more than we could stand because we were funkies and runabouts for the dignified sophomores. We feared that if we didn't act promptly when called upon we would be severely chastised, and we dared not raise a hand for protection. But soon this "Freshie" year passed and our idea changed very much to our surprise.

Now we realize that being a Sophomore really means only a call for higher things. We realize that we know nothing and that it is time to gain knowledge instead as our freshman idea was to give off a little even to the instructors when needed. We know now that it takes harder licks and more of them to make a senior, which is our highest ambition. This road is a long one but we are on the home stretch and two more short years will see us stepping down from the old stage with the long coveted sheepskin in our hands.

We hope that there will be no one to drop out of our class. Wouldn't that be a record? A class of about eighty seniors.

Said Prof. Tomlinson: "I adore the sophomore class more than any class in school because they are not so dignified as the seniors and not so unexperienced as the "Freshies."

To make the class a complete one, it has a fine athletic club mostly experienced in the way of basket ball, also several members of our class belong to the tennis club.

In closing, I want to leave the impression that we have a grand sophomore class. I hope that the next class will be as good as the present one.

Freshman Class History

"Hey! freshman, don't cut the campus. Won't you ever learn?" These are only some of the words ringing in the ears of the class of '28. Nevertheless, "those days are gone forever."

Although the class of '28 was accused of being green, it was not long before they had gained recognition. The winter had come and the verdure of the class had disappeared. Many had demonstrated their ability in doing unusually splendid work, and a great number had soon learned the regular routine of the school, and were falling in line as leaders rather than followers. It is only just to mention that the students with an average grade of ninety and eligible to draw for the dollar were the greatest in number from our class.

The freshman basket ball team gave evidence of an excellent varsity of material for next year. It scored more points against its opponents than the varsity team and lose fewer games.

As one may say, "he has come to the end of a perfect day." We the class of '28 could well say that we have finished a perfect school year. We have conformed to the regulations of the Arkansas Polytechnic College; have set good examples, and will continue to work for the betterment and advancement of our Alma Mater.

Science Department

The Science Department of this school is one of the most important departments in the institution. Because of the variety of work pursued and the large field over which the scope of study extends together with the applicability of the knowledge gained. The study of science is one of the most fascinating branches of study that man is privileged to pursue.

College Physics—This course is given over to the study of matter and energy and the laws by which these are governed. The aim of the course is to stimulate the pupil to do some thinking on his own account about the hows and whys of the physical world in which we live.

General Chemistry—This course is given over to a detailed study of the fundamental facts which deal with the chemical phenomena that are the most important in every day life. The lecture work is supplemented by actual work in the laboratory.

Organic Chemistry—This course is consummated in the study of the aliphatic series of hydrocarbons, alcohols, ethers, aldehydes, ketones, organic acids, esters, fats, waxes, carbohydrates and proteins and the study of the Aromatics such as: Benzene, Naphthalene, Anthracene, Sulphuric acids and Nitro compounds.

Qualitative Analysis—This course is confined to a study of the important reactions of the most common metals and the qualitative separation of these metals.

Quantitative Analysis—In this course the student is given a brief on all the chemistry that he has taken before, and is given a working knowledge of the volumetric and gravimetric analysis of minerals, salts and acids. A number of analysis are carried out by each student in the laboratory.

Botany—The study of Botany is given over to the study of the microscopic structures of roots, stems, leaves, flowers and fruits of flowering plants. General morphology of algae, fungi, liverworts, mosses, ferns and seed plants are selected for lecture and laboratory work. Special emphasis is laid upon nutrition, reproduction, life-history and evolution of those forms which are of both scientific and economic importance.

Geology—This course is designed to give a general, but comprehensive account of the origin, nature, distribution and uses of the metallic and non-metallic products of the earth.

Zoology—This is a general course in Invertebrate and Vertebrate Zoology consummated in the classification of the various species of animals with a detailed study of the various classes and orders.

Entomology—This course is made up of the composite study of the anatomy, physiology, classification and habits of insects and other arthropods. This course give the student a foundation for subsequent study of the control of injurious insects, protection of useful insects, and prepares him for original work along these lines. Each student is required to collect, mount, and classify a minimum of one hundred species of insects.

General Bacteriology—General Bacteriology is a study of the morphology and classification of bacteria, yeasts, and molds. The cultivation, observation and distribution of micro "organisms"; the principles of sterilization and food preservation; the roll of micro "organisms" in the relation to public health, especially in water.

Soil Bacteriology makes a special study of the micro "organisms" living in the soil, organisms associated with the putrefaction and decay of organic matter in the soil.

Agri Club

About the middle of January, 1922, a group of boys and Mr. Weldon, who were interested in bettering the Agricultural interests of the State, met for the purpose of organizing a club so that these questions pertaining to Agriculture might be brought before the students of this school. The Club has been doing some splendid work since the time of its organization.

Membership to this club is open to any male student in school who shows that he is interested in Agricultural work. It is not the purpose of the club to have the president give out all the information but for the club members as a whole to do it.

The farmer has had a hard struggle in the past trying to find the thing that meant something in the advancement of modern Agriculture. What are the things that give this advancement?

It is important to get a few more dollars for the crops we grow; a few more cents a pound for our cotton; a few more dimes a bushel for our wheat, corn or rye. And yet after all the most important thing for any man is something infinitely greater than that, it is to develop within himself those God-given qualities of manhood that will make him willing to sacrifice and endure for a moment that which promises a richer inheritance to his community, state or nation. These are some of the things that the "Agri" Club wishes to foster.

Seemingly we have students that do not like this work or either they cannot stand the struggle. But is it no new thing. It is as old as time. In the work for American Independence many people refused to follow the lead of George Washington, but said they desired the rule of the British king.

Young Men's Christian Association

Of the many organizations that have contributed to the success and glory of the Arkansas Polytechnic College, the Young Men's Christian Association ranks with the highest.

The object of the Association is "To lead students to become disciples of Jesus Christ, the Divine Lord and Savior, to lead them to join the church, to promote growth in Christian faith and character, and to enlist them in Christian Service."

The student body is beginning to realize that not only does the world need leaders but it needs Christian leaders. In student organizations of this kind Christian leaders are being developed. It is devoutly hoped that in the future the rural communities of Arkansas may not lack for Sunday schools and churches.

At this time the Association is busily engaged in raising its share of the money that goes to the building of a college lodge on Petit Jean Mountain. Already the work has started. Some are contributing in labor and some in money. This is probably the greatest piece of work that the college Y's in Arkansas have undertaken. When this lodge is completed the students will have some place to hold week end retreats and conferences.

This organization is slowly but surely gaining ground in our college. It is the only society that is trying to do religious work from within, among the boys. The Young Men's Christian Association stands for a well developed physical, mental, and spiritual manhood.

Periclean Literary Society

Early in the year of 1923, two Literary Societies were organized at the Aggie School, now A. P. C., displacing the one of former years. The Periclean Society, though beginning with a comparative small membership, had a very definite purpose in mind. By competent leadership and loyal cooperation, splendid success has been achieved.

From the very beginning all were earnest and sincere about their work. They labored not for personal gain alone, but for that greater purpose—the upbuilding of their school and the promotion of its interests.

The Periclean Society was represented in 1924 at the State High School Debating League by G. E. Tanner, Bunyan Webb and Joe Bishop, who acquitted themselves well.

For many years there has been a decided lack of social life in the institution. The Pericleans have been instrumental in fostering a better understanding and acquaintanceship among both faculty and students. They and other organizations have sponsored various social functions throughout the year, all of which has created a better or more "homey" atmosphere for the students. The results are obvious—better contentment and increased love and loyalty for dear old A. P. C.

Arkco-Agrian Literary Society

The Arkco-Agrian Literary Society is facing the end of the school year of 1924-25 conscious of the fact that this year has been one of progress for her. For the most part her one hundred and twenty members have derived valuable experience from the time spent in her halls this year.

The purpose of this organization is to secure for each member such training as will enable him to speak in public.

The society has been fortunate this year in its selection of officers. These students have proved themselves worthy of filling their positions and faithfully discharging their duties. The Arkco-Agrian Literary Society is well represented in every worthy phase of college activities and the society at all times endeavors to maintain an honorable attitude in every particular.

Let's couple the experience gained from past achievements with an inward desire for future development and bend every effort toward making the coming year even greater than the past.

Domestic Science

The heart of man is ruled by what the spoon, cup and platter hold. The blest be the feast with simple plenty crowned—this feast must not only be properly prepared, so as to give the body the correct nutrition and to enable it to function properly, but it must be palatable and savory thus adding contentment to the appetite.

Probably no other phase of sanitation should receive as much attention as the preparation of food, and its related agencies.

The aim of this course is not only to teach what foods to select, how to prepare and serve them; but by what means they are transported; care of the food at the markets, and a proficient knowledge of the D. S. work, so as to enable them to thoroughly understand the science of nutrition; so that the girls will not only be able to serve their home and communities more proficiently, but be well enough versed to teach the subject themselves in the schools of our State.

This department prepares some very appetizing pastries and lunches during the school year. This enables any student who wishes to part with his daily dozen at the beanery, to have a real entertaining lunch.

Domestic Art is that phase of household art which treats of the scientific study of the color, line and design as applied to the individual and the home.

A study of Domestic Art means a knowledge of materials as to weave, width, price and appropriateness to occasion.

The courses in Domestic Art treat thoroughly the care of machines, use of commercial patterns, pattern drafting, utilization of old materials, budget making and house furnishing.

In reality a knowledge of Domestic Art means a knowledge of color harmonies as studied in interior decoration, the making of housekeeping and the proper development of social ideals.

A. P. College Domestic Art Department enables the country girl who wishes to further her talent in this kind of work to do so. Not only does the girl merely learn how to do the technics of the college requirements, but she learns how to dispense her knowledge intelligently, thereby affording the girls with whom they may come into contact, a source for information in this work. Arkansas homes, Arkansas women and children will receive an appreciable amount of good from the D. A. girls in our college and this will react to such an extent that neater homes, wives and children will follow.

Music Department

Music rightly has a place in the life of everyone. No education is complete until it contains some degree of appreciation for it. Life, in its broadest sense, is not experienced in the absence of music. It inspires the soul of man to remember the beauties which are about him and to see more in life than money.

The aim of the music department is to promote interest in good music. Talented musicians often invade our shores and here in our department of music they have an opportunity to develop their talents to the extent that the world recognized their ability and thus their mission in the world is fulfilled, at least to the extent that they discover that which they are best suited for.

The music department consists of two main divisions, that is; the piano and voice division and the band and orchestra division. Neither of these conflict with the other so that any student may be connected with both.

This department contributes greatly to the activities of the school in the banquets and other socials, as well as religious activities are made more entertaining and inspiring by the numbers furnished by the department of music.

Band and Orchestra Division

The Band and Orchestra division is composed of three distinct organizations, viz, Orchestra, Beginners' Orchestra, and Band.

The bands lends amusement to the student body by furnishing interesting programs on different occasions and the members of the band deserve part of the honor for every victory won by the "Wonder Boys" on the gridiron, diamond, court or track.

The Orchestra is an organization in which more students should be interested. It furnishes entertainment for literary programs and has invaded the field of professional organizations. The future of the orchestra should not be prophesied for as its obstacles are surmounted, growth may be expected to continue, until it is recognized as one of the strongest organizations of the school.

The Beginners' Orchestra must also be mentioned. Its members work as diligently as those of the regular orchestra and band and it is this organization upon which our director must depend for recruits for the vacancies ever occurring in our department.

Piano and Voice Division

The Piano and Voice Division of the Department of Music is made up of the choir, which is composed of both boys and girls, Boys' Glee Club, Girls' Glee Club and the Quartette.

This division of the music department, under the direction of its able leader, is of great help in giving variety to our Sunday afternoon programs and commencement exercises.

It is possible through this department for many students to discover their callings, and their associations with this department may prove their most pleasant ones while in attendance at the College.

The 1925 Baseball Team

Unfortunately our baseball activities are badly curbed by the fact that the school year at A. P. C. is only from six to eight weeks after the weather permits baseball practice.

Yet withing this time a good college team is always whipped into shape, and the past two seasons have been fairly succesful considering the teams played and resulting scores.

Our squad this year has several hold-overs, namely: Reasoner, 2b; Tucker, ss; Bewley, rf; Horn, 3b; Nixon, p; Lyons, c; Overby, 3b; Carter, c; Keathley, c and lf; Reismont, 1b; Skinner, p; and the addition of Hester, Sands, Moore, Gateley, Blackburn, McMurty, Menees and Priddy.

The team has in the past been somewhat handicapped by lack of pitching material, but this handicap seems to be of small worry this year as there are five or six promising twirlers getting into condition.

If the team can develop any hitting strength and hold their own in fielding, the season will be a successful one.

The schedule as to date is incomplete, but such teams as the College of the Ozarks, State Teachers' College, Hendreson-Brown, Ouachita and probably some out of state team or teams will be included.

The season opens April the 2 with a two game series with the College of the Ozarks. Coach E. O. Brown is very optimitisc over his team and the prospects of it being a winning one.

AGRICOLA

CLARK REASONER ("Captain")

All State Guard '23, '24

The close of 1924 football season placed in the "has beens" class the best guard Arkansas ever produced; Clark Reasoner graduates. It was his consistent playing of a stellar game plus a few extra thrills in each game such as recovering fumbles and intercepting passes that won for him the admiration of all.

If Clark plays the game of life as he played football he'll be heard of in other vocations as a success.

G. W. HAMM ("Hootch")

"Hootch" received every vote for
All State Right Tackle

his position in the All-State selection, which proves that he is one of the greatest linemen in the state, this being the third consecutive time to win the same honor. A. P. C. was fortunate in having a player of his type, though unfortunate in losing him by graduation.

JOHN TUCKER ("Tuck")

All State Quarterback (4 Years)
Captain '21

"Tuck" is a mighty good all round player. He is a master of the "stiff arm" and an excellent field general. He played not for himself, but for the team and the school. A better player cannot be found. John has carved a niche for himself in the A. P. C. hall of fame that time will not erase. The best wishes of the entire student body go with Tucker.

AGRICOLA

BOB MOORE (Halfback
All State High School Man

Moore came to us from Fort Smith and has played only one season, but in that time he has opened the eyes of Arkansas people. He is sub-captain of team next year, and is expected to fill a place of some of the old stars equally as well or better than they filled it.

C. B. SMITH
Captain Elect

Smith can truthfully say that football has been a very great factor in his development, and the people all over Arkansas can truthfully say that he has been a great factor in making the "Wonder Team" what it is. With C. B. as the leader next year, the team will be sure to bring the bacon home.

DENTON POWERS
Halfback

It was thought that Denton would not be able to play any more due to injuries, but when the season opened he was on the grid every day in spite of this handicap. He showed the people how to run interference, and carry the ball thru very small holes in the line. It was his help that caused the recognition of some of the others.

AGRICOLA

ORAL H. McILROY

Tackle

The passing of Mac, via graduation, will cause many tackles in Arkansas to rest more at ease in regard to that all state post.

Mac always does his duty plus a little more. Thus his success in life is assured.

ELMER HAMM ("Unk")

Right End

"Unk" was a real dependable end—one of the toughest problems that any opposing player ever tried to solve. In playing his last year with A. P. C. he gave his best to the team, reserving only that honor for himself in which all the team shared. We regret to lose him by graduation.

GEORGE STOKES ("Speedy")

End

"Speedy," a hard tackler, a valuable man to break up end runs and fake plays. George was a star in every game played this season. One of the reliable wing men who graduates this year.

AGRICOLA

C. B. CLEMENT ("Big Foot")

Guard

This is "Big Foot's" second year with the "Wonder Boys." In the Tennessee Doctors game he showed the people of Arkansas a real lineman in every respect. He is just a little small, but the lack of quantity is made up by superior quality. With his ability and size, he should be an All State man next year.

JIM HUGH ARRINGTON

Fullback

At the beginning of the season it was thought that we needed a fullback, but when Jim Hugh got in condition the opposing team always dreaded to see him coming with the ball. He was hard to tackle and a good man to back up the line. He was always ready and willing to tackle a man the moment he crossed the scrimmage line.

PAUL LEMING

Half Back

Peter is known as one of the fastest men in in the state. This with his determination always gives him a good gain. He is small enough to get through an ordinary hole in the line and if it is made he always gets there. He has been a great factor in the team's success.

AGRICOLA

ADDIS EVANS

Full Back and Half Back

Addis played a stellar game in both offensive and defensive playing. By his powerful strength he was able to ram many a hole for the needed gain. This was his first year to win the coveted letter. Next year's all state football team roster should find his name thereon.

ALVIN LONGSTRETH

End

Although this was his first year, he played end equally as well as some older players. He was noted for his fast and hard tackling. There is a great future for him in football. Any Arkansas team would be glad to get him.

JOE BENNETT ("Sow")

Center

A mighty dependable man, a man who won the admiration of the spectators by his hard fighting and clean playing. "Sow" is one of those linemen who know only one direction and that is forward. A two year man at center who graduates and will be hard to replace.

AGRICOLA

FRANK STANLEY
Sub Tackle

There were no more faithful football aspirants than "Slats." He gave and put that old fight into each play, which has caused the name "Wonder Boys" to be a symbol for sportsman-like contest. A. P. C. is losing by his graduation one of its most loyal and ardent football players.

JOE LYONS
Halfback

Joe is given credit for saving the day in the Tulsa game. It seemed that he could not be stopped. He would go at will around the ends or over the tackles. He is a good kicker and a valuable man.

CARROLL JONES (Captain '22)
All State Fullback '20, '21

"Cap" graduates. All opposing teams may well rejoice for no more will they have to suffer the misery which his fierce line plunging dealt them.

"Cap" is one of the original "Wonder Boys" and has seen them through to the end. May his record in life ever be such.

AGRICOLA

Our 1925 Prospects

The football season for 1925 will afford the men who play upon the team ample opposition. And if our expectations are correct, the name "Wonder Boys" will be dreaded as of yore.

Our 1925 Schedule

September 25th—Open.
October 2nd—Phillips University—Home.
October 13—Henderson-Brown—Little Rock.
October 20th—State Normal—Home.
October 30th—Oklahoma State Normal (Tenative)—Durant.
November 11th—Ouachita—Little Rock.
November 20th—College of the Ozarks—Home.
November 27th—Tulsa University—Home.
Post season game with Georgetown University (tenative)—There.

All-State Men

A. P. C. placed three men this year on the All-State first team and two on the All-State second team.

John Tucker—Half back and captain—1st team.
Clark (Fatty) Reasoner—Right guard—1st team.
G. W. ("Hootch") Hamm—Right tackle—1st team.
Oral H. McLroy—Left tackle—2nd team.
Gold footballs were awarded these men by acting president W. O. Young.

AGRICOLA

HAROLD OVERBY
Sub Quarter

He is a little man, but a mighty good one. He was never known to get excited. In the game with Texas A. & M. he outwitted all of them and made several long gains that no one else could make. He always works hard.

PAT HAMM
Sub End and Halfback

This was Pat's first year on the 1st squad, and rests not on the laurels of his name bearers before him, but by hard fighting and minute diagnosis of the opposing team, bids for a niche of his own. He should be one of A. P. C's. best bets in '25.

RAY BLAIR
End

Ray came to us from the College of the Ozarks the latter part of the season. Although he did not play enough to make his letter he is one of the state's best ends. He is large and very powerful on the defense. No team can advance the ball very far thru his side of the line.

AGRICOLA

W. E. BLACKBURN ("Blackie")

Sub Guard

"Blackie" came from the Lone Star State, and proved that in him A. P. C. will have one of its strongest banner bearers in the chase for state champions in 1925.

He is uncanny in solving opposing plays and in opening holes for his backs.

GRADY OPITZ ("Stud")

Center

"Stud," while being injured soon after the first game, so as to impair him for the rest of the season, was one of A. P. C's. worthiest athletes. Always putting all he had in every play. We hope to see "Stud" at the pivotal position for A. P. C. in 1925.

ESCHOL HORN

Sub End

This was his first year to try football and bids fair to become one of our best. By his speed, and knack of being at the completed end of forward passes should enable him to fill this position in '25.

AGRICOLA

AUTREY NEWMAN ("Sir")
Sub Tackle

"Sir" has been with the squad four years. Though never making a letter, he has displayed and given his untiring ability and energy to win our games. By graduation we lose him.

EMMETT MENEES
Sub Halfback

This was Emmett's first year at A. P. C. and though not able to make a letter, he gave his best to make the ones who did deserve theirs. Hope that 1925 will find Emmett playing for A. P. C.

MONTA NIXON ("John")
Sub Halfback

John was the giant guard to be knocked out in the first play at Conway in 1923. Monta gave his best to win every game and made several needed yards in gains for A. P. C. We hope to have him in the A. P. C. fold in '25.

AGRICOLA

CARD WARD Sub Guard

Carl, by lack of experience, did not get to play much, but he deserves commendation for staying in the game, and by experience gained this year should make a real good man for us in 1926.

CLYDE JONES ("Hope") Sub Tackle

"Hope" is a vicious tackler and played a good brand of football for us although injuries prevented him from playing more. With his knowledge of the game, his strength and determination, he should make A. P. C. one of its best linemen in 1925.

KASPAR SKINNER ("Cap") Sub Guard

"Cap" should be one of our best men in 1925. Gaining experience and team work this year ought to place him in position to be a regular. We hope to see "Cap" yanking the oval for A. P. C. again.

AGRICOLA

THE SQUAD

JAMES MYOVER ("Jimmy")

Jimmy rounded up the scrubs and became scrub football coach. Judge his results by his looks—rather pleasing.

G. W. HAMM ("Hootch")
Guard

"Hootch" is a veteran guard. He has played sensational ball all season. There has been times when with just the absence of him would have meant defeat for our team. It is to our sorrow that he cannot be with us another year.

MURL McMURTRY ("Mack")
Guard

"Mack" came to us from the Lone Star State. He is noted for his pivoting and getting the ball on the rebound. "Mack" always fights hard for Tech.

ESCHOL HORN
Captain and Forward

Echol was our most accurate goal tosser, playing a stellar game all the time, and giving his best in every play, he was one of our most valuable basket ball men.

AGRICOLA

JAMES LYNN HESTER ("Hes")

Forward

"Hes" came to us from Lonoke. He is a stellar forward and always shows the old Tech fight. Although this being his first year he has won the confidence of every team mate. He is expected to hit a real forward stride in '26.

RICHARD PRIDDY ("Dick")

Guard

"Dick" came to us from Russellville High, where he was a star in '24. Although, this being his first year at Tech, he has proven to be a valuable asset to his team.

C. B. CLEMENT ("Big Foot")

Guard

"Foot's" is one of the most promising men on the squad. He can be depended on to do his part in any game. The last two years were his first with us, but we expect great things of him next year.

DOUGLAS HILL ("Doug")

Forward

"Doug" is a good guard as well as a first rate forward. He was not spectacular, but always played a consistent game, fighting every minute and always using good judgment.

AGRICOLA

PAT HAMM
Forward

Pat is noted for his good and fast floor work. He is considered a very dangerous man for his opponents. His pep and fighting spirit will win him a place on any team.

TROY CAVINESS (Known as Pete)

Forward

Pete will be remembered long by his team mates for his splendid floor work and accuracy in looping the baskets. Pete will be a strong contender next season.

KASPER SKINNER
Forward and Center

"Cap" was one of our best basket ball players, tall, rangy and a fighter. We hope to see him playing for A. P. C. in 1926.

WILLIS BLACKBURN ("Blackie")
Guard

"Blackie" hails from the Lone Star State, although this being his first year at Tech he has proven to be of great value to our team. "Blackie" should have a great year in '26. We are hoping that he is with us another year.

Track Team

The outlook of our track team is bright, with only a few losses from last year, left the team practically intact. Such veterans as Carroll Jones, Powers, Tucker, Stokes, Burton brothers, Horn, and the addition of some of the best men in the state places our track team in such a position that they should easily win all meets in which they participate.

The track schedule as to date is a dual meet with Ouachita College and State Teachers' College.

AGRICOLA

Girls' Basket Ball Team

Thompson, Ramsey, Graham, Reed, Yates, Nolen, Wheeler, Stanford, Boyer, Vaughn, Gardner, Meyers, Ward, Smith, Rogers, Hamm, Rhinehart and Featherston.

AGRICOLA

GERTRUDE BOYER

Captain

Some folks say a knocker never wins. In this case that statement is not true. For "Gertie" is our "knocker" in center and she is a good one.

LOIS HAMM

Although, this is Lois' first year, she has worked up into a good guard. She has played in some match games already and here she has gained much of our favor as a basket ball player.

LOIS WARD

Lois, "the fat and jolly" basket ball player, leaves off her fun when she enters a game. She goes in with the spirit of "do or die" and she seems to have complete control over the ball for it rolls into the basket whenever she throws.

AGRICOLA

PRUE ROGERS

Prue was with us last year, but this year she seems to have greatly improved. She catches the ball when it comes her way and with a jump at her center, she throws it.

FREDA SMITH

"Shorty" is our sub side center. She can give her signale then carry them out as easily as if she were a professional. When Freda gets to be a "big" girl she will make a real center.

JOHNNIE REED

"Shimmie" is a good example of a real forward. The girl guarding her is always ready for a rest after Johnnie has lead her a "merry chase" over the basket ball court. Johnnie goes in with a grim determination to win and has been a star forward in many match games.

MISS NORA BROWN
Girls' Basketball Coach, Physical Culture and Dramatic Club Director.

CLEO RAMSEY

Cleo is another new girl but she has proved to be a real guard. She is one of the girls who can tell of her exciting experiences in Conway (?).

FERN YATES

Fern is another good forward. She is quick and rarely ever misses a goal. She is a real sport.

CECILE STANFORD

Cecile is the swiftest player on the team. A statement was once made that Cecile would make a good quarterback if she were put in a football suit. She and "Gertie" show real "team work" together.

FLORENCE GRAHAM

On a basket ball court Florence struts her stuff. She sticks with her forward and watches the ball as a chicken watches a hawk. She is a dandy guard.

The Old Reliable Incubators and Brooders

The World's Famous Reliable Incubators and Brooders have been successfully operated in all altitudes and climates in all countries of the world for over forty-four years. The 1925 Model has all the latest patents and improvements and is one of the best hatching machines it is possible to manufacture and will hatch every hatchable egg with the least care at attention and the least cost. This is the machine that hatches strong, fluffy chicks that will live and grow. It is the cheapest incubator to buy on account of the larger per cent hatches it gives.

The Improved Reliable Valveless Blue Flame Hovers

Raise all your chicks with the new 1925 Model Reliable Blue Flame Colony Hover. It is absolutely "fool-proof." It can't clog up or go out. Burner cannot overflow as it is operated on an oil level and is valveless, easy to regulate. It will burn automatically without going out as long as there is oil in the reservoir. It is absolutely safe and dependable, insuring your chicks against sudden weather changes without care or bother. Manufactured in three sizes; 30 inch, 42 inch and 52 inch canopies. All hovers delivered to you completely assembled and ready to operate. Nothing to put together after you get it.

Reliable Standard Coal Burning Brooders

The New Reliable Standard Coal Brooder with our new designed feed pouch with a four inch flue, burns hard or soft coal. Has 10 per cent larger coal capacity and weighs fully 15 per cent more than any similar size stove on the market. They are self-cleaning, preventing ashes from banking up against the grates—insuring the radiation of all the heat to the outside. Made in 500, 1000 and 1200 chick sizes.

"Is the new English Prof. stiff?"
"Stiff! He raises the devil if you have a period upside down."

I—"I don't know how many times he kissed me."

II—"What! With it happening right under your nose!"

"You're stringing me," said the bean to the cook.

Some people think they are literary because they use a pencil on their eyebrows.

TO '27

A woodpecker pecked on a freshman's head,

And settled down to drill;
He worked away for half a day,
And then he broke his bill.

"There's the guy I'm laying for," said the hen as the farmer crossed the barnyard.

Prof. White—Can anyone name a liquid that does not freeze?

Freshman—Yes, sir, hot water.

Before time for the party some of the girls had gathered in the parlor, conversing on topics nearest their hearts.

"Oh, girls," said Dorothy. I know a new charm to tell when one loves you."

"What is it?" queried the chorus.

"Take five or six chestnuts, name each after some man you know, and put them on the stove. The first one that pops is the one that loves you."

Bertha, toying with a new diamond, "I know a much better way. Select one man, place him on the sofa, and sit close to him, with a dim light. If he doesn't pop its time to change the man on the sofa."

After dinner when all the guests had returned to the parlor there were not enough seats to accommodate all and the small brother of Mary Scott Reinhardt was sitting in Testbob Horn's lap. After a while, the boy looked up and asked, "Eschol, am I as heavy as Mary Scott?"

THE CUE

Ann B. —Weren't you shocked when Otho gave you lingerie for Christmas? Annie—I tried to be.

"Man is a tyrant," said Mrs. McElroy to a group of friends, "Isn't he, Oral?"

"Why it all depends my dear, upon—"

"Is he or is he not?" she asked as she fixed her eyes upon him.

"He is"—from O. H.

Pauline Edwards, for the first time saw a cat carrying her kitten by the nape of the neck.

"You ain't fit to be a mother," she cried scathingly. "You ain't hardly fit to be a father."
